agale confession into a mass meeting. Thereupon, I protested against this revolutionary and rebellious proceeding in behalf of my party without effect. A motion not to instruct our delegates to the Senatorial Convention prevailed. The motion was made by Sol. Cunningham himself. One delegate from each district favorable to him was appointed with alternates favorable to me, and I declined to defeat Pendleton's claim by contesting this outrage in the Senatorial Convention, and requested that my name be not presented there. These are the plain, unvarnished facts which none of these conspirators dares deny. I leave results with my fellow Democrats.

It will be observed that Mr. Pennybacker is "loaded for bear," and that the Democratic situation in the district is decidedly unhealthy. The outcome will be watched for with interest.

A Police Woman.

The case of the woman known as Doris Hamlin, charged with stealing diamonds, is in the highest degree discreditable to the police department of this city.

At the Chief of Police explains in defense of defenseless conduct, the woman was in custody seven days without being a prisoner. The Chief desires it to be understood that with the very best intentions, yet without warrant of law, he kept the accused under his thumb, charged with a felony, yet not permitted to consult counsel; ill, yet not permitted to have a physician; in no sense rightfully under his control, yet not allowed to speak to a newspaper reporter that her case might be brought before the bar of public opinion.

The woman has been kept in seclusion, under duress, forced to do what the police required her to do, to say what it suited their purposes for her to say to the public. Instead of being in a hospital, where she should be, she has been transferred from the city lock-up to the county jail. The police have made themselves her counsel, physician, guardian and confessor.

Is Wheeling in South America, Russia or Turkey, that public officers may do such things without being scourged with the lash of the public indignation?

The case looks all the more scandalous because of the rank atmosphere of blackmail which surrounds it.

The State Committee in the Campaign.

Mr. E. F. Meighan, of Marshall, the newly chosen Chairman of the Republican State Committee, is an experienced politician of great industry and zeal. In the campaign now fairly opened he will contribute all that one man can to party success. The superior of Mr. Atkinson, as Secretary, cannot be found. He knows the State and its people and understands the work which a Secretary has to do.

There is very much, however, that ought to be done in the way of organization which cannot be expected of the Chairman and Secretary. Every member of the committee should feel that a responsibility rests on him, not only with regard to the general work of the committee but in respect of the organization in the particular district which he represents.

It is too much the custom of committees to lay on the chairman and secretary the whole burden and responsibility. If this were the way that party expected, it would do away with the committee and throw the entire load on two men. The way to achieve Republican success in West Virginia is for every Republican to work. Members of the State committee, by reason of the special work entrusted to them, are under special obligation to be up and doing all through the campaign.

What the Higher Prices Represent.

The Louisville Commercial presents the meat of the tariff question in referring to the claim of Mr. Gladstone and other high authorities on economic subjects that the profits upon protected industries are no greater than those upon the unprotected—in other words, the manufacturers of Free Trade England make just as large profits as the manufacturers of protected America. This result, says our contemporary, is in accordance with common sense and common observation. Whenever the profits in any branch of business are very large, people immediately rush into that business and it is extended till large production compels the cutting down of profits. In cases where there are apparent exceptions to this rule it will be found that the exception is because the manufacturers in those cases have control of valuable patents, and as long as their patents last they have monopolies. Any policy which will transfer large branches of the industry to this country is a good one. When we import articles from another country we import labor and farm products in a concentrated form, and we invite competition upon our laborers and our farmers to that extent. When we make articles here our labor and farm products, which feed the labor, are concentrated in them, and the more we make here the greater the demand for our labor and farm products. Any temporary increase in price which follows the imposition of a protective duty in aid of as soon as the duty accomplishes its purpose in establishing new industries. The higher prices in comparison with foreign prices that prevail here do not represent larger profits to manufacturers, but better living to workingmen.

WEST DISTRICT POLITICS.

Gen. Goff will not stand under any circumstances—Clifford's Candidacy.

Special Correspondence of the Intelligencer.

CLARKSBURG, W. VA., August 20.—

The Republican Congressional nomination is exciting great interest here, first on account of the uncertainty as to whether General Goff will allow his name to be used, and secondly on account of the report that if he does not many of his supporters will favor Clifford.

"I am positive that before long you will see the result of this contest," said a few days since, General Goff informed some of his most trusted friends that under no circumstances would he consent to accept the nomination; that his business affairs and sickness in his family made it impossible for him to enter the campaign. I know, moreover, that many, and very many, too, of his friends favor Clifford in case the General cannot be induced to change his decision.

Active is a rising man, young, smart, lively, brilliant lawyer and student speaker. He is an Irishman, and would be voting the solid Republican vote of this portion of the district hundreds of votes from the Democrats. In fact, I believe he would get the almost entire Irish vote. I do not know how other parts of the district will go, but I know that he can carry this portion thereof easily.

Though, if General Goff will run I am for him first, last and all the time.

Your correspondent met Mr. Clifford on the street yesterday and asked him: "What about the Congressional nomination?"

He said: "I am for General Goff. I know my name has been mentioned here, but I cannot accept it. I have a great deal to do, and my business affairs are ticklish things. If elected I might go to Washington a couple of years, drop my practice, and at the end of my term I would have to begin my client while I would have to begin life all over again, no; it's probably a nice thing to have the honor of being a Congressman, and I appreciate the efforts of my friends, but I cannot do it. I'm too busy for me; give it to some man who can afford it."

Notwithstanding Mr. Clifford may, it is certain that the feeling among the Irish in his favor is increasing, and that if the delegates really express the will of the majority of Republicans he will enter the convention as the candidate of the Harrison delegation.

CLARKSBURG FAIR.

Prospects for a Very Successful Exhibition.

Special Correspondence of the Intelligencer.

CLARKSBURG, W. VA., August 20.—

The twenty-fourth annual fair of the West Virginia Agricultural and Mechanical Society which takes place at the grounds of the Society in this city September 2, 3 and 4, bids fair to be the most successful exhibition ever given by the Society. Applications for space have been so great that the grounds will be crowded to accommodate all the applicants. All railroads entering the town will run special and regular trains direct to the grounds at reduced rates of fare.

The program of the year exceeds those of any former year. The races will be exceptionally fine, as good purses have been offered which have induced owners of first class runners and trotters to enter their stock.

On the two last days of the fair Prof. Dennis, a well known scientist, will make an address in the air ship "Globe," and will also give a lecture from the balloon at an altitude of about 2,000 feet.

Present indications are that the town will be crowded to excess each day of the fair, and that all visitors will go away satisfied.

The officers of the Society are A. H. Osborn, President; John Lowe, Vice President; M. Thompson, Secretary; F. E. Sigler, Treasurer; W. T. Throckmold and O. A. Annan, Committee of Arrangements.

Shimshon Campmeeting.

Special Correspondence of the Intelligencer.

CLARKSBURG, W. VA., August 20.—

The annual campmeeting of the Methodist Episcopal Church of this district, which opened at Shinnston next Sunday, will be largely attended. Special trains will be run from Morgantown, Fairmont, Weston, Buckhannon, Clarksburg and many other points, and large numbers of persons have signified their intention of taking advantage of the facilities offered to attend what has been known during past years as the most notable gathering of Methodists in the State.

Old Nicholas Luning, of San Francisco, who died the other day worth $15,000,000, was a miser, grasping and miserly. Some time ago an acquaintance who had noticed that he looked very unhappy, "What is the matter, Mr. Luning?" he asked. "Matter enough," growled the old miser, "I've got $5,000,000 lying idle in the bank because I can't loan it anything over six per cent."
